Re: 3-09CV0988-F In Re Jeff Baron Receivership

Your Honor,

Jeff was set to have surgery last Friday. He needed $2,000.00 to cover the insurance deductible. We asked the receiver, they refused. Jeff didn't have the surgery. We respectfully request the Court's assistance to have the receiver release $2,000.00 for Jeff's medical needs without spending hours of time on it.

With respect to the supplemental Section 144 affidavit, we have added quotes and hearing dates. If the time were available, I could track down the page and lines. It is not. The reason that was not done is not out of disrespect for your honor. Rather, your honor's order that I be trial counsel while not allowing me to paid for the work or expenses, combined with the receivers' ongoing work mill (funded by your honor with hundreds of thousands of dollars of Jeff's life savings) has, as a financial matter, forced me to work without office support staff. The daily demands of working in response to the receiver's ongoing work mill—without office staff and associated attorneys— while still attending to pre-existing obligations to other clients, exceeds the time available each day. Obviously, without funding for support staff I am substantially handicapped in the ability to do my job.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Gary N. Schepps
